

Rashtrasant Tukadoji Maharaj Nagpur University (RTMNU) Law Journal

Under the Aegis of Post Graduate Teaching Department of Law, RTMNU

Inaugural Edition on Contemporary Socio-Legal Issues

About the Journal

In a rapidly changing world defined by globalization, digitization, and socio-political transformation, the traditional boundaries between law and society are becoming increasingly fluid. The socio-legal landscape is evolving, where issues like human rights, environmental sustainability, technological innovation, and access to justice are taking center stage. These concerns demand scholarly attention that moves beyond traditional legal frameworks, offering fresh perspectives that merge law with broader social, economic, and political contexts.

The RTMNU Law Journal is an academic platform designed to foster interdisciplinary dialogue and research, making it a pioneering space for the exchange of ideas that impact both law and society. We are committed to publishing high-quality, peer-reviewed research that not only advances academic knowledge but also influences policy debates and social justice movements.

Scope and Themes

The journal aims to explore a wide array of contemporary socio-legal issues that reflect the complexities of modern life. Submissions can cover, but are not limited to, the following themes:

- Human Rights and Social Justice: Examining the intersection of law and human dignity, especially in the context of marginalized communities, gender equality, and civil liberties.
- Environmental Law and Sustainability: Addressing legal responses to climate change, natural resource management, and sustainable development in the light of recent global and national trends.
- Technology and Law: Delving into the legal challenges posed by digital transformation, AI, cybersecurity, and data privacy, as well as the implications of new technologies on legal practice.
- Access to Justice: Evaluating initiatives aimed at bridging the gap between law and society, particularly in enhancing access to legal aid, judicial reforms, and the rights of vulnerable groups.
- Constitutional Law and Governance: Exploring contemporary constitutional issues, governance models, and how the rule of law is evolving in response to societal needs and political shifts.
- Criminal Law and Criminology: Offering critical insights into the criminal justice system, the interplay between law enforcement and society, and emerging areas such as cybercrime and international criminal law.

Invitation for Contributions

The Rashtrasant Tukadoji Maharaj Nagpur University Law Journal invites contributions from academicians, legal practitioners, scholars, and students. Submissions can take the form of:

- Research Articles: In-depth analysis of legal or socio-legal issues with a focus on current developments or theoretical innovations.
- Case Commentaries: Critical examination of recent or landmark judicial decisions, shedding light on their broader implications for law and society.
- Book Reviews: Reviews of recent publications that contribute to socio-legal scholarship.
- Notes and Essays: Shorter, thought-provoking pieces on emerging socio-legal issues or policy debates.

Objectives

- To Foster Scholarly Engagement: By providing a platform for rigorous academic discourse, we aim to enhance understanding of the interrelationship between law and society.
- To Influence Policy and Legal Reform: Contributions will be chosen for their potential to inform and influence ongoing policy and legal reforms.
- To Promote Interdisciplinary Research: Recognizing that contemporary socio-legal issues cannot be addressed in isolation, the journal encourages contributions that integrate perspectives from different fields such as political science, economics, sociology, and technology.
